

Greetings from bullyland

In this message:

- 1./ CKNW 'Say No to bullying' campaign
- 2./ Local meetings coming up
- 3./ Here to Help - a resource for all sorts
- 4./ Our survey - just a few more submissions and then we can begin to use the information to persuade and inform.
- 5./ A few links of interest.
- 6./ Vancouver forum on workplace bullying.

1./ CKNW 'Say No to bullying' campaign

Though CKNW is based here in Vancouver, Christy Clark has really taken on bullying in all its forms, and comments and interviews and examples have come from coast to coast to coast

http://www.cknw.com/station/anti_bullying/index.cfm

Wear something pink on Wednesday 27th February:

<http://www.christyclark.ca/wearpink/>

Stephen of No Bully For Me appeared in the roundtable on 5th February (Karen was to represent us but had to cancel at the last minute) with Dr. Gary Namie by phone from the States and a CUPE lawyer, Carmela Allevato

Here's a easy to use direct link to listen to the show:

(fast forward to the 6 minute mark to skip the news and weather and sports...)

http://www.cknw.com/dynamic/dynamic_audiovault_process.asp?dt=20080205_14

**** **** ****

<http://www.christyclark.ca/wearpink/>

has a comments area so you can add your support and also a series of posters, handbills and brochures to print off and put up at your workplace, school etc

Here are some posters in varying sizes in PDF format you can print off and post at your school or workplace:

- Letter size \(8.5" x 11"\)

- Legal size \(8.5" x 14"\)

- Handbill \(8.5" x 2"\)

- Multiple Handbills for printing and cutting out \(8.5" x 2" each\)

The story and a video about the two young men who started the movement:

<http://www.cbc.ca/canada/nova-scotia/story/2007/09/18/pink-tshirts-students.html?ref=rss>

2./ Local meetings coming up

Join our mailing list for details of local group meetings

*** **

3./ Here to Help - a resource for all sorts

<http://www.heretohelp.bc.ca/>

A beautifully designed site, clearly written in good plain English about mental health and wellness and relationships and substance abuse and lots more.

Here's an example, this one on how to speak with teenaged boys - clearly written, sympathetic to both 'sides'. Surely how teenaged boys mature, or don't, has a lot to do with forming both targets and bullies...

<http://www.heretohelp.bc.ca/publications/factsheets/boys>

4./ Our survey - just a few more submissions and then we can begin to use the information to persuade and inform.

If you have not yet added your story to our statistics please consider doing so.

<http://www.nobullyforme.ca/cgi-bin/esurvey.cgi?action=viewSurvey&id=1123717406>

None of your personal information will be revealed but the results will help us provide the only Canadian based information collected from across the country.

Thanks!

5./ A few links of interest:

From the UK - 7 out of 10 affected by workplace bullying

<http://www.personneltoday.com/articles/article.aspx?liarticleid=44491&printerfriendly=true>

From Japan, bullying behaviours described in a very Japanese way

<http://www.yomiuri.co.jp/dy/national/20080213TDY02309.htm>

From Washington State, the push for legislation continues...

<http://www.theolympian.com/stateworkers/story/355626.html>

From Australia, more about bullying in healthcare...

<http://www.abc.net.au/news/stories/2008/02/22/2170104.htm>

6./ Vancouver forum on workplace bullying.

We still can't go public with details but we are working with a varied roundtable on a forum in the late spring.

We will pass out details as soon as they are available.

Do pass on any information you we should share....

take care,

Stephen and Karen

No Bully For Me

On the web:

<http://www.nobullyforme.ca>

or

<http://www.nobullyforme.org>

Email: nobullyforme@gmail.com

Privacy: You have received this message as you have contacted No Bully For Me and/or are on our e-mailing list.

If you want to be removed from our mailing list please send us an email with 'unsubscribe' in the subject line. Thank you.

Karen and Stephen

No Bully For Me